What is the North East Asia Youth Environmental Network Open Forum?

TUNZA North East Asia Youth Environment Network (TUNZA-NEAYEN) is a youth network set up in January 2005 with consultation and support from the UNEP Regional Office for Asia and the Pacific as a part of the UNEP's global youth strategy. It aims and functions at sub-regional level to mobilize youth and youth organizations in the countries such as China, Japan, South Korea and Mongolia for environmental protection activities under the principle of sustainable development. The TUNZA-NEAYEN conference is held once a year, and this year will be held in Japan. In the Open Forum, in cooperation with Chiba University, you can know environmental protection activities done by Chiba University students and communicate with youth from other countries.
